ALVA NORMAL WINS THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Oklahoma City, April 24—Northwestern State Normal of Alva was victorious over Southwestern State Normal of Durant in a warmly contested debate at the high school auditorium Wednesday night, on the subject, "Resolved, That No Toll Should Be Levied on United States Ships Passing Through Panama Canal." The winning team was composed of L. Carl Ray, and Leo S. Scott, both senior students at Alva, who took the affirmative side of the debate. The negative side was represented by Dan D. Stewart and Morris Lively, the former a senior and the latter a junior in the Durant Normal school. The judges were Superintendent of City schools, W. A. Bradenburgh, Dr. A. C. Scott and Judge Samuel Hayes of the Oklahoma Supreme court.

The score averaged between opinions of the three judges showed: Alva, 89 1-4 per cent; Durant, 87 2-3 per cent. The individual score averaged, showed: Ray, 89 1-2 per cent; Scott, 89 per cent; Stewart, 89 1-3 per cent, and Lively, 85 2-3 per cent.

The Alva team in previous debates defeated Kansas State Normal of Emporia on one occasion and Southwestern State Normal of Weatherford on another. The Durant team, also a strong one, has to its credit victories over the state normal at Ada and Tahlequah. The event was attended by a large audience.

TWO BILLS ARE PASSED OVER VETO

BOTH HOUSES DON WAR PAINT. ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS AND GAME WARDENS GO.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 24—The legislative displeasure over vetoes of Gov. Cruce was made more pronounced today by repassage of both the bill abolishing the position of State Enforcement Officer and the bill shutting down the jobs of twelve Deputy Game and Fish Wardens.

The Enforcement Officer bill went over on roll call in the House yesterday and completed its trip through the Senate today, there being cast thirty-two out of forty votes against the Governor's position.

While the going was good Senator McClintic called from the President's desk the bill by himself and Senator Aycock abolishing places of the Deputy Wardens, and that was passed over the Governor's veto by a vote of thirty-two to nine. On first completion of roll call there were only twenty-eight votes for the bill, two short of the required number. Senators Edmunson and Dutton, quickly switched from "no" to "aye," making it safe and following them came Senators Kendrick and Mitchell, both of whom had answered on the negative side.

On the Enforcement Officer's bill the following voted to sustain the Governor's veto message: Senators Board, Carpenter, Franklin, Harlin, McMechan, Russell, Warner and Waters. Senator Blasingame was excused from voting. The only absent member was Senator Curran, all other members of the Senate voting against the Governor's veto.

Those voting to support the Governor's veto of the Deputy Game Warden bill were Senators Austin, Barefoot, Briggs, McMechan and Waterous. All other members of the Senate save Curran voted against the Governor's position.

Action in House

Announcement of the Senate's action met with long and loud applause in the House of Representatives. Calls came from the members to bring on the bill, and in due time the Senate bill dealing with the Deputy Game and Fish Wardens was laid before the House.

The Governor's veto message was rejected by a vote of seventy-eight to seven.

The House members voting to sustain the veto message were Messrs. Carr, Crawford, Durant, Joyner, Matthews, Peters and Wyand. The absentees were Messrs. Ashby, Brown, Chase, Cook, Dizney, Emanuel, Hills of Pittsburg, Morris, Randall, Ruby, Stillwell. All other members of the House voted against the Governor's position.

In both branches the bills were handled without debate.

Will Veto School Bills

Today it came from a reliable source that the Governor's position is: If he is forced to accept the responsibility for abolishing some of the institutions, he will veto all of the agricultural schools, with exception of that in the Panhandle, and three normals. Edmond and Alva are scheduled to remain and the Governor said he would give Representatives from Ada, Durant and Tahlequah a hearing as to which one of the East side normals was to be continued.

The program does not suit the Representatives. There is a bond of legislative sympathy between those from institutional towns and they do not want the opportunity to disrupt the alliance. Nine of the institutional bills reached the Governor today.

It is possible to put the bills over the Governor's veto in the Senate, but there is nothing sure about it in the House.

TARIFF BILL WILL NOT HURT BUSINESS

(By CLYDE H. TAVENNER, Member of Congress.)

Washington, April 24—The attack of special privileges upon the Underwood tariff bill has begun. All of the moth-eaten old scares—in the opinion of thoughtful students of the tariff, they are but scarecrows—being lugged out again and a great many honest people will undoubtedly be frightened by them.

The first indication of the tactics to be used by the beneficiaries of special privilege came in the press-agented mass meeting of linen workers in New York State. A desperate attempt is to be made to throw the working man of the country into a panic by parading before them the bogey of hard times.

But before they allow themselves to be stampeded, the people should consider who are behind this old stand pat argument against tariff revision downward. Are the working men themselves doing it? Last fall's election figures show that the working men of the country voted almost solidly for the Democratic party which was pledged to make just this sort of tariff revision that is contained in the Underwood bill.

If you Value Your Eyesight, see An Expert Optometrist. I have spent 20 years preparing myself to perfect the refraction of the eye. My modern equipment, backed by this long experience is your Guarantee of Satisfaction. A. D. COON, Ramsey's Drug Store, Ada, Okla.

No, these now inciting the cry of hard times, and using the long abused public to reject the tariff revision before it is given a trial are the very ones who have profited by the robber tariff rates of the Payne-Aldrich law.

Are they now so concerned for the welfare of the working people when during the sixteen years they have resisted inch by inch the slowly successful efforts of organized labor to make them discharge some of the swollen profits they have been enabled to reap by iniquitous tariff rates.

The people should not be thrown into a panic by this old argument. For the first time in years the people have it in their power to abolish the trust-fostering Republican tariff, and the people's representatives, the Democrats in Congress, are going ahead, undisturbed by the calamity howlers.

As a matter of fact there will be no panic caused by the Underwood tariff revision. Some business, perhaps, those grossly indifferent in their methods, or existing under artificial conditions, may suffer on account of the new tariff rates, but their number will be negligible.

Business, managed by capable men, honestly striving to be more efficient, cannot be harmed by the tariff reductions. On the contrary, only good can result. American wastefulness is a byword to the manufacturers of the rest of the world. As long as our business exists behind an artificially reared protection wall, this wastefulness is bound to continue, and the people may pay for the waste in the cost of living. Take away this wall and you do away with the waste while putting a premium on economy and efficiency. The Underwood tariff will put American business on a healthy foundation of thrift.

Business men in Congress are not worrying. Representative J. H. Geoke, of Ohio, is the proprietor of a large chain factory in that state. During the consideration of the tariff bill by the Democratic caucus he said to me:

"I just now voted for the Underwood duty on chains. It cuts the present rate in two. As conditions are now, this means that we will be unable to compete with Germany on some of the better sorts of chains. But we do not expect to close our factory on that account. We will go ahead, and in time we will meet the German competition. We will not meet it by cutting wages either. We will do it by improving our shop methods—by becoming more efficient."

And this fairly represents the view that honest and thoughtful manufacturers are taking toward the tariff.

MONTENEGRINS

Cetinje, April 24—After a final desperate attack the Montenegrin troops forced their way into Scutari at four o'clock this morning. The Turkish commander signed an act of capitulation after the Montenegrins reached the center of the city. The greater part of the city of Scutari is in ruins as a result of the six months bombardment.

Bulgaria and Greece Row
London, April 23—Bulgaria and Greece are rapidly drifting towards war over the possession of Soloniki, according to the Chronicle's correspondent in that town.

The Greeks have mobilized every available soldier and concentrated one army in the neighborhood of Saloniki, while another is being landed at Orfani, in the Gulf of Offani, to watch the movements of Bulgarians at Drama and Kavala. The victorious Epirus army from Janina is being distributed along the new strategic frontier from Saloniki to Orfani.

Bulgarians Take Steps
In the meantime, adds the correspondent, the Bulgarians have suspended passenger traffic between Dedaghat and Saloniki and are utilizing the railway for concentration of troops in the neighborhood of Drama, close to the Greek position. They have already brought one division each from Adrianople, Chatalja and Bulair and it is estimated that the Bulgarians now have 90,000 soldiers facing the Greeks and a Serbian force supporting the Greeks which is assembled along the railway north of Saloniki and on the right side of the Vardar river.

SPLENDID TRIBE OF INDIANS

Inhabitants of Tiburon Island, According to Consul, Closely Approach Physical Perfection.

United States Consul Long at Nogales, Mexico, tells of a peculiar people known as the Seris Indians, who occupy Tiburon Island, in the Gulf of California. He says that the island of Tiburon is one of the largest and most picturesque in the Gulf of California, and is peopled by a most remarkable tribe of Indians, who are noted for their large size and extraordinary athletic on land and water. Those who have witnessed their aquatic sports at a respectful distance declare that many of them can actually walk, or rather run, upon the water with no other assistance than broad rawhide shoes. The consul states that they are expert fishermen and hunters, having rigid ideas as to the maintenance of game preserves on their island and limiting the killing of game under severe penalties. They destroy all children in infancy that are malformed or apparently lacking in intelligence. In this way the standard of physical and mental conditions in both sexes is kept very high.

The natives have no school, but each home has a system of physical training. No man is allowed to penetrate the island, even if he should make a landing. The natives guard the shores day and night. It is said that no epidemics have ever prevailed on the island, and disease is scarcely known among this extraordinary people, so that the men and women are magnificent in physical endowment. No man or woman is allowed to live beyond the age of 70, no matter how well preserved in body and mind. By careful selection, a large percentage of the women have a transparent, peachy complexion and deep auburn hair.

FOUND IN RUINS OF LYSTRA

Beautifully Sculptured Stone and Remains of Early Christian Church Reward Travelers' Visit.

On the great sloping hillside where the chief buildings of Lystra stood, and the level plain at its foot, the only semblance of buildings we saw, says a writer in the Christian Herald, were some rough stone sheepfolds where the shepherds shelter their timid flocks by night or in stormy weather. Built into one of these rude sheepfolds we found a beautifully sculptured stone with inscriptions that would rejoice the heart of an archeologist.

In another part of the plain we saw the scanty ruins of a small Christian church. Near it a fountain gushes forth. This fountain is called Ayasma, and its very name shows that it was considered sacred by the Christians.

The most interesting site in all Lystra is that of the temple where Paul and Barnabas were hailed as gods. At least there is every probability that its location has been discovered, for on the level plain, just before the land begins to rise to the hill on which the chief buildings were situated, on its southeast side stands a pedestal on which is an inscription showing that it was dedicated to the Emperor Augustus, whose worship was connected with the chief temple. "Here undoubtedly was the temple of 'Zeus-before-the-City,'" and wonderful discoveries and confirmation of Scripture doubtless await the excavator's spade.

Family Bulletin Board.

Get a prettily mounted scratch pad and hang in the hall, close to where you lay off your wraps. Hang a pencil to the tablet. When a mother leaves the house before the children are home from school she should write on it where she has gone and when she expects to return, and also remind them of any duties she wishes them to perform in her absence. In their turn, if they go out, they should write a message for her, so that she will know where they are and when they will return. If any one calls on any member of the family during his or her absence, it should be promptly recorded, together with any message that may have been left. Telephone messages should also be written down as soon as received. Each member of the family should look at the bulletin board immediately upon entering the house, and thus no one will ever be bothered by messages being forgotten.

Extraordinary Multiplication.

A German philosopher has calculated that a single grain of wheat produces fifty grains, and that these fifty will each produce fifty grains more, and so on. Thus he finds that the grain would develop in the following way: In the second year, 2,500 grains. In the third year, 125,000 grains. In the sixth year, 15,625,000,000 grains. In the twelfth year, 244,140,625,000,000 grains. The third year's crop would give three hundred men one meal, leaving enough bran to feed eight pigs for one day. The produce of a single grain in the twelfth year would suffice to support all the world with food during their lifetime.—Bakers' Weekly.

Telephones in Turkey.

The Ottoman government has recently installed a telephone system in Jerusalem for its own use. There are ten stations, including Government house, the courthouse, military headquarters and several municipal police stations. The instruments used are of the Bell system and were supplied by that company's Belgian house. The matter of a concession for a public telephone service in Jerusalem, Jaffa and Bethlehem is still in abeyance.

MAXWELL

Since my last communication our little town has been called to mourn the death of two of our citizens; first came the demise of that venerable old soldier, Mr. Sylvester Summers, who saw service in the 24th Ill. Infantry and was honorably discharged at the close of the war. He was the oldest member of the Summers family who are so numerous in this locality. Day by day this band of patriots are passing away, we can but feel sad when one of these noble men die; it carries us back to the 60's when in our youth we met so many of them on the field of honor when both sides battled for what each man thought patriotism demanded. Peace be with you, our brother.

The next to fall before that monster was Mrs. Vick who was buried in Maxwell cemetery yesterday evening. Mrs. Vick was comparatively young she left eight children among whom is a pair of twins two months old. How the father is to care for this number of children, I can not see as he is a very poor man. This lady was blessed in having a brother like Joe Isaac, who as soon as he learned of her condition he went to Pottawatomie county and hauled her to his home, where she received every attention that loving hands and nearby friends could render. Mr. Isaac deserves great praise for his timely attention and the expense borne by him. Although he is the father of a large family he cheerfully did all in his power. The attending physicians while they from the beginning had little hope, rendered all the service possible. Drs. eWbster and Shi are to be commended for their attention.

The oil and gas fever has at last reached Maxwell. A representative of a solvent company has been canvassing this section for a week, seeking leases on all land in the vicinity of Maxwell, paying a small amount per acre and obligating the company to bore a number of test wells, all this to be done within eight months, this appears like business and we may get oil; the socialist and vice president Marshall in an emergency could furnish the gas.

The price of cattle is soaring to such an extent I see no way for a socialist to eat good beef unless he works more and talks less.

Has the Legislative Committee really found the conditions existing as they report from Granite? The report shows a fearful state of affairs which if true should brand with shame every official responsible for it and if not true the committee did very wrong in publishing such a libel, as a citizen of Oklahoma I do hope it is not so bad as depicted.

I am amazed at the words of vice Pres. Marshall as published in the Post Dispatch of April 14th 1913. I quote from him. "The right to inherit and the right to devise is not inherent nor constitutional, on the contrary it is a privilege granted by the people." If this is not bare-faced socialism, what is it? Coming from the vice president it will do more to inflame the minds of the rabble than a thousand Debess could do. We fought this issue in 1860 when our property was taken and we were left penniless, if this issue is to be settled by force let it come soon, and let us know what becomes of our accumulations of a life time made by honest strife while our Stephen D. Yanceys of 1860 were wallow in the mire. Yes, now is the time to make the issue, let it be as it may.

It Makes All the Difference In the World

That's what you say when you tell your friends about your shopping expeditions. It may be the principals of the store, the service it offers or the quality of the goods it sells that you are discussing. But the difference to you means your satisfaction or disappointment.

You will find when you deal with the merchants who advertise in the NEWS that the difference stands always for satisfaction. Each store values its reputation too much to risk disappointing you. Each wants every good will. So they direct every effort to serve you best and give you the best values.

PONTOTOC WIRELESS

Again the week has opened up with a beautiful clear day to find the many industrious farmers engaged in their crops.

The fishing trip of last Friday was enjoyed very much by all who attended—there being a large crowd and plenty of fish for all. Bob Guest of Ada played the leading hand in eating. It is plain to see the clear sparkling waters of Blue affords an unlimited supply of fish which are easily captured. The party was gotten up by the school.

One of the most interesting features of late was the base ball game between Mill Creek and Pontotoc, played at Pontotoc Sunday, the 20th, which was a hard fought battle from beginning to end.

Batteries for Pontotoc were Weims and Fox; for Mill Creek, Norton and Bullman.

Owing to Weims losing control in the second and third innings which resulted in four scores, gave Mill Creek decidedly the advantage.

Although Norton's balls were hard to see yet he was found in several instances which looked favorable for a long hit, yet they found all at home and ready to pull them down.

Until the last half of the eighth, when Eubanks made connection with Norton's mean one and set the horse hide twirling over the park fence, making a home run. This being the only score for Pontotoc.

Ada Elks are challenged by both teams.

VANOSS

Cotton planting is the order of the day. We feel assured of a crop now as we have a good season in the ground and the land well prepared. The old idea of hard listing and planting is fast fading and the people are fast learning that a crop can't grow without having a good seed bed for the plant roots to feed in and retain the moisture.

O. C. White of Roff closed a school at Galley Chapel last Friday and is visiting his brother and sister in Vanoss this week.

Quite a host of our young people attended the Garvin County singing convention at Prairie Grove Sunday and report a nice time and plenty of dinner for everybody and some to leave.

Mac Seymore's clearing east of town shows up his place nice from town. There has been more new land put in this year than in several years. You can see where they have felled the timber on every side and the plow share turned up new soil to make abundant crops, when you go out. The Cox family at the section house has had a round of measles but are all better now.

T. A. Anderson and son went to Roff to be at the contest.

Prof. J. W. Bohannon and Miss Laura Anderson suspended school

Friday to attend the teachers meeting at Roff.

Vanoss is on the lookout for some good gin man to put in an independent gin at this place ad a grist mill in connection. It is quite a task for the people to have to go to Stratford and Roff and other places to get their corn ground.

The measles have kept Dr. F. S. Sturdevant quite busy for the past two weeks but are getting better now.

The don't work and weary club is putting in its work and recuperating over its dormant state of the winter and getting ready for its summers work.

"Kissing Day" At Hungerford

London, April 24—One of the few ancient customs that has survived the changes of time, and the fame of which has spread throughout the world, is "kissing day," which was observed as usual today at Hungerford, the Lancastrian borough on the western borders of Berkshire. Lusty blasts on the ancient horn were blown early this morning by the town crier, attired in a new livery for the occasion. Then the "tuttimen" went forth with florally decorated staves, their duty being to kiss all the ladies whom they met, and demand a penny from every male householder they called upon. Meanwhile the Hocktide jury were meeting in the town hall for the transaction of more serious business, appointing a constable, who is a coroner and mayor combined, ale tasters, leather sealers, keepers of the keys of the common coffer, and other ancient officials whose duties are more picturesque than practical.

GLYCERINE SHELL DROPS; ONE KILLED; TWO INJURED

Tulsa, Okla., April 24—Just as he was preparing to "shoot" an oil well near Nowata this evening L. H. Miller let the shell containing nitro-glycerine drop to the floor of the derrick. It exploded and both of Miller's legs were blown off, killing him instantly. John Hopkins, a tool dresser, lost both of his arms and another man was so badly injured he may die. The derrick was demolished.

SPEAKING OF CHANGES

By COSTER BYLES.

There was not a wilder boy in town than young Cuthbert Tanhurst. All the mothers with marriageable daughters held up their hands in horror at the mere mention of his name, and the men-about-town were unanimous in pronouncing him a thoroughbred. It was partly the fault of his education. His father had been a most successful speculator, and had taught his son that he must spend his money like a gentleman or not at all.

The young fellow had imbibed aristocratic desires from his earliest days, he had learned never to stint himself, never to do anything himself that others could be hired to do for him, and to believe that the one great object of living was to extract from each day as much pleasure as the hours would hold.

Then his father dropped suddenly from the position of millionaire to that of pauper, a not unusual change on the stage of speculation. A grand coup went wrong, and Tanhurst, Sr., was out of the game for good. The shock killed the old gentleman, and when the lawyers were done with the settlements, Cuthbert found himself penniless.

It was against his grain to go to work, so he became an habitu  of the poker rooms at fashionable clubs, and a prominent figure at the race courses. It was at this time that his name became as a red rag to the good people of the town. With a very few exceptions all the strictly proper folks who had been glad to accept the hospitality of Tanhurst, Sr., turned away their heads when they saw the son.

At the close of a summer day he was walking home in a sullen mood. It had been a bad day, misfortune had dogged him persistently, and he was asking himself what was the use of continuing it all. He was of no good to himself, and there was no one else in the world who cared for him, or of whom he dared think as caring for him. In the old days of luxury he had always hoped to call Marie Fairborn his own, but now it was too late.

He had said to himself in the years past that after a taste of life there would be nothing like a quiet home shared with Marie. She had never disguised her liking for him. But now? He had not dared to go near the Fairborn house for over a year; when he had seen Marie he dodged round corners and avoided her. Now she was in his thoughts as a prize that he had long ago forfeited and must forget, with other things. His thoughts encompassed him in such a mist of gloom that he hardly looked where he was going. The lake was before him and he was walking toward it. He never noticed the figures that were approaching him. A sweet voice, like the memory of an old perfume, aroused him.

"Why, Cuthbert!" Marie Fairborn stood before him. He saw a look of wonder and pity within her eyes.

"I beg your pardon," he exclaimed confusedly. "I was not thinking—I never noticed—" he moved as though to pass on, but the girl stopped him. "Cuthbert," she said, "why won't you speak to me? I haven't seen you for ever so long."

"Marie," he returned desperately. "I'm not fit. If people should see you talking to me! Really, I'd better go." "What nonsense, Cuthbert. You're fit enough for me. Come, you shall walk with me and tell me everything."

With much incoherency Cuthbert told the story of his downfall, or as much of it as he could relate without breaking. Somehow the soft eyes of the girl by his side led him to tell the story as he would have told it to no other human being. He spoke of his sins, his sorrows, his hopes, and of his present despair.

"So you see, Marie," he said at the finish, "I'm of no use at all. I might as well get out of the running altogether. Why should I take the trouble to work and struggle? I do not care enough for myself, now, to do that."

"But if there was some one else that you cared for, some one who would try to teach you to win back your self-respect, would you not try then?"

"But there is no one," he responded. "Perhaps, if there was—but why think of it?"

"But there is some one, Cuthbert." A little hand touched his gently, and he turned from his moody gazing to look down at the girl.

"Marie," he exclaimed, almost fiercely, "don't play with me. Are you in earnest? You don't really mean that you will be that some one, do you? You can't—you can't—what?" He stopped and kissed the gloved hand fervently.

"Now don't be an absurd boy," said Marie. But for the rest of the walk Cuthbert behaved himself like a boy just out of school.

About a year later a number of men were enjoying an after-dinner chat at the Bellevue club. "Speaking of changes," one man was saying, "did any one ever see anything to equal the change that came over Cuthbert Tanhurst after he married. Used to be the most worthless scamp in town. Buckled down to work like the mischief, and now he's doing fine. How d'you account for it?"

"You remember the French philosopher's rule," replied his friend, "the rule he applied to all sorts of cases, good and bad. 'Find the woman.' It was a woman in that case. She used to be Marie Fairborn, she's Mrs. Tanhurst now."

Grandma, Tell Me a Story

Leaning o'er a curly head,
In a little trundle bed,
An old woman, white of hair,
Lingered gently listening there.

One bright eye now takes a peep,
Though she thinks him fast asleep;
One soft hand her own enfolds—
"Grandma tell me a story."

Patiently she tells it through,
Though to him it is not new—
Gently soothing her voice she makes
Go to the end without a break.
Restlessly the little head does toss—
"Grandma, tell me a story."

Then in her arms the woman takes
The little lad all she has to make
Her life here on earth a heavenly bliss
—and now she sobs—it has come to this.

One brief struggle and all is o'er—
The child is gone and
His voice no more
Will plead in childish accents sweet
—"Grandma, tell me a story."

One bright star in the crown above—
One little soul in that land of love.
But Grandma listens for childish feet,
And the tones of a little voice so sweet—
"Grandma, tell me a story."

—By LEE DEAN,
Composer of "My Dream Mother."

The day was devoted to the consideration of numerous plans to further the industrial and agricultural development of Oklahoma.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back The Natural Color

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place," is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is old-fashioned "sage tea," which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Agents, Gwin & Mays Drug Co., Ada, Okla.—adv.
